

My thesis's Turnitin result indicates 36%. Whereas, at the beginning of the study endeavour, Turnitin of the literature review I had previously supplied are counted for around 12% of the similarity. The resemblance in anatomy, material, machine names, and references accounts for the remaining similarities. I have comprehended the assignment, and using what I have learned, I have included data from my experiment and associated results in my thesis paper.